

Cold and Lowdown Lonesome Blues

Blue Highway

I never felt this way before you left me
And the memories I just can't erase
I need to wander out and just start living
But a broken heart has kept me in this place
Yeah a broken heart has kept me in this place

I notice all the shadows in this cabin
While the day is fading into night
It feels the room with loneliness and sorrow
And I miss the way you once held me tight
Yeah I miss the way you held me tight

I've got no word of why you even left me
Sometimes I sit alone and I wander why
You stole my heart away and left me lonely
Now I hang my head to cry
Now I hang my head to cry

I offered you my love but you're not willing
Now I wander why I even tried
I'm walking around lonesome ever after
You ran around and became another's bride
You ran around and became another's bride

There's no fire left here in my life now
The waters freezing right here in this room
You took the warmth away when you left me
It's a shame what a cold heart can do
It's a shame what a cold heart can do

I called you up one last time to tell you
About all the pain I'm living through
You tell me you don't want to hear my troubles
For my cold and lowdown lonesome blues
I've got the cold and lowdown lonesome blues

Lyrics submitted by Samdaman.