

Famous For Her Dress

Should

“famous for her dress” was all that she could say before tearing up she’d turn and hesitate as if she found the strength but then it all came out “why did she have to stay?”
“and if it hadn’t rained..she would still be here”

she hadn’t found the strength quite yet to lay the past at rest at night she watched the lights of cars go by imagining another life

as the green of summer fades and gives way to the chill she can’t give it up
“why did she have to stay?”
“and if it hadn’t rained..she would still be here”

she hadn’t found the strength quite yet
to lay the past at rest at night
she watched the lights of cars go by
imagining another life

Lyrics submitted by Marc.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>