

Waterfall

With Confidence

This is a calling out to you
Through the deep Pacific blue
You're my voice that echoes the waves
Pushing soundwaves out to you
Well let's make it to the room
We'll buy a candlelight or two
And in your sweet December haze
I'd have fell for love again
As the sand trickles in two
Sadly you're in glass of truth
While I wash out the days
Will it hold a thin regrace? Well either way
Oh I'll remember you
This is a calling out for truth
Even the tides are cruel
I hear your voice, I hear it all
I hear your comments pushing through
Will I make it to your room?
We'd buy a candlelight or two They say they watched us fall apart
But couldn't find us
They say they called it from the start
But couldn't guide us
They say they watched us fall apart
But couldn't find us Well either way
Oh I'll remember you Find me, I'd see
And tell me why you never loved me
Cause I gave you my all
I had to watch you fall
And even in the darkest silence
I could hear and see your guidance
But now we lost it all
I had to watch you fall
Don't miss the waterfall This is a calling out in two
When of everything we knew
My voice just soften in your gaze
Quiet rank of one to two
I sat lost inside a room
By candlelight or two They say they watched us fall apart
But couldn't find us

They say they called it from the start
But couldn't guide us
They say they watched us fall apart
But couldn't find us Well either way
Oh I'll remember you Find me, I'd see
And tell me why you never loved me
Cause I gave you my all
I had to watch you fall And even in the darkest silence
I could hear and see your guidance
But now we lost it all
I had to watch you fall
Don't miss the waterfall Truly fall
They say they caught us in a daze
We were away and never thought
That it would change
But now you ruined all our ways
And the ways will let them find us
They'll never find us Find me, I'd see
And tell me why you never loved me
Cause I gave you my all
I had to watch you fall
