

I Love You

BENI

I love you
I don't wanna hear a sad song tonight amidst the stormy weather
I love you
We have run away together in the night, coming to life
It's not like we were handed everything on a silver platter Nothing but stray cats cold in the dark, Searching through the leaves and looking for a place just a little bit better, Flickering eyes in the middle of the night, following the sparks I've got to tell you now my darling, as we hold
each other upon
This old single bed that we rest our bodies on
If we just close our eyes together now, it'll get us through somehow Cause our love won't scar from any sad song they sing, or the troubles they bring I love you There are secrets into young lovers too young to ever be touched
I love you
How could we ever hope to find each other the way we live today?
Dreaming of a love that wraps itself around everything Dreaming of it only to have them clip our wings
All of the times that you ask 'Do you love me with all of your heart?'
How, if I ever took my love away, it would just tear you apart I've got to tell you now my darling, as we hold
each other upon
This old single bed that we rest our bodies on
If we just close our eyes together now, it'll get us through somehow Cause our love won't scar from any sad song they sing, or the troubles they bring If we just close our eyes together now, it'll get us through somehow Cause our love won't scar from any sad song they sing, or the troubles they bring
