

So Now You Know

Neurosonic

Outside my home
I'm looking hard for a higher road
To take handful of stones
I wonder how, how could my windows break?
I'll never know the hurt I cause
Or see things through your eyes
Happiness can't come from home
When all we have is lies To make things right
I won't come home tonight,
Or any other night So please don't cry,
Just say goodbye
And know that I tried to make it all right
Because I'm always right
So now you know. I add up all this wasted time Wondering where you've been
In the end, the guilt is mine
Because I just can't begin
To make you smile like you once did
And wipe away those tears
Looking back, I've wrecked your life
I've wasted all those years To make things right,
I won't come home tonight
Or any other night So please don't cry,
Just say goodbye
And know that I tried to make it all right
Because I'm always right
So now you know. I don't know where to begin,
I don't know where I belong,
I only know what I think
And everything I think is wrong.
And everything I think is wrong! To make things right,
I won't come home tonight
I won't come home tonight.
Just say goodbye,
and know that I tried to make it all right
Because I'm always right.
So now you know.

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnlyrics.com/>