

Don't Watch Me Dancing

Little Joy

Margarita has a strange appeal sways between suitors on a broke heel Of course her desires they always mistook Shed rather be scarred than be scarred with love

In conversation shed often contend Customs builds customs that evolve dead-ends
If she found her courage in a change of scene
The sunday social would be short it's queen
All her best years spent distracted
By this tired re-enactments
With the right step
she would try her chances Somewhere else

There he is a step outside her view Reciting the words he hope she might pursue Night upon night of faithful eye at shore
If only hed convince his legs across the floor

"Please don't watch me dancing oh no don't watch me dancing"

Something changes when she glances Enough to teach you what romance is
With the right step
they would try their chances
Somewhere else

Please don't watch me dancing
don't watch me dancing
Please don't watch me dancing
don't watch me dancing
