Allume

Be who you are
If it fits in the system
Say what you will
But you might die if they listen
Think in the politics
Gasoline and torture
Please only talk to me in the dark
Please only talk to me in the dark
Write what you will
If you write it in a prison
Sing how you feel
But you die if they listen
Think in the politics
Of rosaries and chains
And it's hard to tell the right from the wrong
The right is protecting the wrong
Be who you are
But not where there are people
Reality is taught
Right and wrong, there is no middle
Think in the politics
Money and ourselves
And it's hard to tell the right from the wrong
The right is protecting the wrong
It's hard to know the right from the wrong
The right is protecting the wrong
