

Lovesick Lullaby (feat. Brent Morgan)

Antoine Dodson

I've tried everything
I'd tried to make you right
But every time I take a step,
You turn it into a flight
Your right, and I don't have breath
You take it out of me
And now you're everything I ever see. I hit the radio
I hear my favourite song
And now don't screw me DJ,
Put another record on. I need something, nothing now
And it's killing me,
And now you're everything I see. But I am giving up,
You won't see me hanging around here,
Heah I'm living up,
You won't see another tear. I've got a story
And it needs to stay true,
Starring with me, instead of you. Cry, cry it's a lovesick lullaby,
Make room for the lost and left behind
And I've believed in everything you wanted be
Maybe in this love, maybe isn't good enough. Cry, cry it's a lovesick lullaby,
I've tried, but I left it all behind
And I've believed in everything you wanted be
Maybe in this love, maybe isn't good enough. If I was everything, everyone
Who ever made me
I wouldn't make it and take it to
Where I want to be
No time of rolling back
Of waiting patiently
And still it's everything I ever see. I've took enough,
I've done enough
For you.
You're out of lies.
It's over now
It's true.
I needed all or nothing
And now it's killing me
Cause you're still everything I see.
But I am giving up,
You won't see me hanging around here,

Heah I'm living up,
You won't see another tear. I've got a story
And it needs to stay true,
Starring with me, instead of you. Cry, cry it's a lovesick lullaby,
Make room for the lost and left behind
And I've believed in everything you wanted be
Maybe in this love, maybe isn't good enough. Cry, cry it's a lovesick lullaby,
I've tried, but I left it all behind
And I've believed in everything you wanted be
Maybe in this love, maybe isn't good enough.

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnyrics.com/>