

I'll Catch You When You Fall

Jack Ingram

It seems like years and a million tears
Since you've left the old hometown
Now you've changed they say and the great white way
Is your new stomping ground Well, it's plain to see you've forgotten me
'Cause you never write or call
But I'll be around when they let you down
And I'll catch you when you fall Well, I'll catch you when you fall
There's no one else but you
Now, you're riding high but honey by and by
You're gonna cry for love that's true And when you're uptown, baby
Starts giving you the stall
Well, I'll be around when they let you down
And I'll catch you when you fall
Well, they've turned your head 'cause I've heard it said
You're ashamed of us back home
But I'll bet the sound of a southern bound
Still chills you to the bone With your haughty pose and your uptown clothes
You aren't fooling me at all
When you're feeling bad this ol' country lad
Is gonna catch you you fall Well, I'll catch you when you fall
There's no one else but you
Now, you're riding high but honey by and by
You're gonna cry for love that's true And when you're uptown, baby
Starts giving you the stall
Well, I'll be around when they let you down
And I'll catch you when you fall
Well, I'll catch you when you fall
There's no one else but you
Now, you're riding high but honey by and by
You're gonna cry for love that's true And when you're uptown, baby
Starts giving you the stall
Well, I'll be around when they let you down
And I'll catch you when you fall Well, I'll be around when they let you down
And I'll catch you when you fall
Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>