

Greenie

James McKay

I was out the back of Bourke
At the grocery shop
Met a guy, he did say
"Development should stop."

He was from the city city
Was environmental
But his life did portray
A hypocritical fundamental

And I said, "Hey Mr. Greenie, are you green?
You protest cotton farming, wearing jeans
You drive out here from Sydney
And fill your car with gasoline
You should have rode a pushbike
It helps the air stay clean"

You know I really love creation
Find global warming scary
But when I hear people judging people
It makes me wary
You can't simplify the concept of human greed
And are you one of those that takes far more than you need

And I said, "Hey Mr. Greenie, are you green?
You protest cotton farming, wearing jeans
You drive out here from Sydney
And fill your car with gasoline
You should have rode a pushbike
It helps the air stay clean"

We're all part of it, demand and supply
If you have more than food and shelter, you can't criticize

And I said, "Hey Mr. Greenie, are you green?
You protest cotton farming, wearing jeans
You drive out here from Sydney
And fill your car with gasoline
You should have rode a pushbike

It helps the air stay clean"

And I said, "Hey Mr. Greenie, are you green?"

You protest cotton farming, wearing jeans

You drive out here from Sydney

And fill your car with gasoline

You should have rode a pushbike

It helps the air stay clean"

Lyrics Submitted by Hubert Grey

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>