

Symbolistic White Walls

Matthew Good

I'm tired of blood and overpriced bubble gum, mom
Nobody wake up there's nothing you could have done wrong
I'm wearing the same grin, I take it all on the chin
I still believe everything I read
And sometimes it's hard, sometimes its harder
Sometimes it's on sale, sometimes it never fails
Well I have a psychic and she says I'm lonely
She says my destiny is turning out all wrong
So now I just sit here
Thinking of meaningful things to say[Chorus: x2]
Symbolistic white walls
Surround me and you
Everything single day
I am cheap and see through I'm tired of blood and over priced bubble gum, mom
Nobody moves and nobody gets hurt for a very long time
I'm wearing the same skin, I take it all on the chin
I still believe everything that I hear
And sometimes its easy, sometimes its easier
And sometimes its all free, sometimes its all free
I have a psychic and she says I'm lonely
She says inside of me is turning out all wrong
So now I just sit here
And think of meaningless things to say.[Chorus: x2]It's all right now
Take the world and make it yours again
It's all right now
Take the world and make it yours again
It's all right now
Take the world and make it yours againIt's all right now
Take the world and make it yours again
Yours again
Yours again
Yours again

Songwriters

MATTHEW GOODPublished by

Lyrics Â© Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>