

Walk Alone

September

Advisory - the following lyrics contain explicit language:

You'll always walk alone I never said I'm tired of talking
I simply had enough talking to you
It's never been my time so I can't wait another minute
I'm sick of standing in line while you're telling the world the truth truth You'll always walk alone
So please come home
'cuz everybody else
Is praying for themselves
When everything is said you're just another stranger now I think you're beautiful playing the savior
That's why I'm saving you from the world
It's gonna eat you alive
Save the thinking about it for later
Why should the winner surround be the lonely ass kind of girl You'll always walk alone
So please come home
'cuz everybody else
Is praying for themselves
When everything is said you're just another stranger now Walk alone
So please come home
'cuz everybody else
Is praying for themselves
When everything is said you're just another stranger now I put my sanity on the table
I'm breaking all of your golden rules
Because I know I'm gonna lose it
If I end up losing you You'll always walk alone
So please come home
'cuz everybody else
Is praying for themselves
When everything is said you're just another stranger now
