On Rich and Poor

Amorphis

Old folk remember
And those today learn
How before their time
Life was different hereWithout the sun people lived
Groped about without the moon
With candles sowing was done
Planting performed with torchAt the time we lived
Without the sunshine
Who had covered up the sun
And who had hidden our moon?Without the moonlight, stumbled
With our fists, fumbled the land
With our hands we sought out roads
With hands roads, with fingers swampsWe could not live without the sun
Or manage without a moonlight
Who would seek out the sun?Who spy out the moon?
Who else if not God?
The one son of GodWithout the sun people lived
Groped about without the moon
With candles sowing was done
Planting performed with torchAt the time we lived
Without the sunshine
Who had covered up the sun
And who had hidden our moon?Without the moonlight, stumbled
With our fists, fumbled the land
With our hands we sought out roads
With hands roads, with fingers swampsWe could not live without the sun
Or manage without a moonlight
Who would seek out the sun?Who spy out the moon?
Who else if not God?
The one son of God

Songwriters
Kim Tapani Rantala;Tomi Samuel Koivusaari;Esa Sepo Antero Holopainen;Olli Pekka Laine;Pasi Antero Koskinen;Veli Pekka KasariPublished by
RELEASE RELAPSE MUSIC

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/