Low Red Moon

Corinne Bailey Rae

So what, you think this is usual?
Strange moon, strange land, strange man
Holdin' hands with tiny horses
Hold them, hold them kindly, man
Low red moon
How can you sleep like a baby? Sleep like baby
But you, you shine so different on the another
You shine different on the another, so strange
I look up and I see
The raising of an old hope
Brave and tattered
A shining knight with shining eyes
He shines around me brightly
So now, I say this is beautiful
I think you are strange
Low red moon

How can you sleep like a baby? Sleep like a baby
But you, you shine so different on the another
You shine different on the another
(Strange moon)
You made me cry when I was young
(Strange land)
And I was young
Now I got strong arms
Strong arms for a girl
And I say he belongs to me
(Strange moon)
He belongs to me, yeah
(Strange moon)
He belongs to me
(Strange moon, strange moon)
Sleep like a baby
(Strange moon)
