Cliffs of Gallipoli

Sabaton

Hear them whisper, voices from the other side Hear them calling former foes now friends are resting side by sideThey will never leave our hearts or fade away live forever
they were far to young to die in such a wayhow many wasted lives how many dreams did fade away
broken promises
they won't be coming homeOh mothers wipe your tears your sons will rest a million years found their peace at last as foe turned to friend
and forgive
And they knew they'd dieGallipoli
Left their letters in the sand
Such waste of life
Gallipoli
Dreams of freedom turned to dustHell is waiting where the ocean meets the sand Cliffs of burden where the soldiers rushed into a certain deathAt the shoreline Blood of heroes stains the land light a candle
One for each of them who fought and died in vainThere is no enemy
There is no victory Only boys who lost their lives in the sand Young men were sacrificed Their names are carved in stone and kept alive and forever we will honor the memory of them
And they knew they would dieGallipoli
Such waste of life
Gallipoli
Dreams of freedom turned to dusthow many wasted lives
broken promises

Such waste of life
Gallipoli
Dreams of freedom turned to dust
