

Too Late

Black Sabbath

Soon it's never more, when you've got to pay for Promises made in the night
Call the magic one and with the magic comes
Forever chained to the flame It's too late, too late for tears, too late
No one hears you, do you feel a touch of evil, it's too late To wish and make it so, to feel the power growing
Stronger, blessed by the dark
And when the candle fades, you can say it was a joke you played
So you must let me go, no It's too late, you've said the word, too late
Something heard you, too late
Now the race is on and you're run out of road
Too late for tears, too late and no one hears you
Can you feel the touch of evil, it's too late Oh, save me, I believe in your name, oh, I've fallen down
But now I've found, nobody to take the blame
Misery, its come to drag me away, when the hunter cries
No alibis, get ready for judgment day, hey As the candle fades, you can say it was a game you made
So you must let me go, let me go It's too late, you've said the word, too late
Something heard you, too late, the spell is gone
And this time you're the fool
It's too late for tears, too late, no one hears you
Welcome to forever, welcome, it's too late, too late
