Reason Enough

Regine Velasquez

I made myself a promise some time ago
Never again to give my heart away
Fell in love with someone who left me in the end
The price of love was just too high to pay
I thought my life had ended, but you came along
And showed me how much brighter things could be Now you see I've turned my back
On that promise that I made
Knowing that your love has set me free
REFRAIN:
(`Cause) You are reason enough for me to go on living
You are reason enough for me to smile again
In a world where hearts are broken
Every now and then
One finds reason enough to love
Like I've found reason enough in you to love again
So here I am, all caught up in this new found love
Feeling like I've never felt before
Putting my love on the line with you
And taking a chance again
I'm not afraid to love anymore
(Repeat Refrain)
In a world where hearts are broken
Every now and then
One finds reason enough to love
Like I've reason enough in you to love again

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/