

Echoes In the Well

Corrosion of Conformity

The water drips from wells of shame

Spilling through these words of blameListen to the battle cries of a race that knows it's dying

Read the bleeding words of those who feel the wheel is at their heel

Then somebody tells me that's the way it was meant to be

And these things will never beAll they see is nothing

They just hear the echoes in the well

All they see is nothing

Silence of the sin, the echoes in the wellStare deep into the frigid eye of a man who knows he's lying

These are those men who make mistakes but don't erase the pain

Then they whisper to me that's the way it was meant to be

These things will never beAll they see is nothing

They just hear the echoes in the well

All they see is nothing

Silence of the sin, the echoes in the wellThere are those who find these times a crime

And those whose souls will never mind

Or those who need to plant these seedsLiving in sin's been induced again

By beating the paths of downtrodden men

Or those who think they know their souls

Stab deep in their hearts and listen to the echoesAll they hear are the echoes in the well

Echoes in the well, echoes in the well

Echoes in the well, echoes in the well

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlrics.com/>