The Lyndsay Diaries

I promise this won't be another song
About being alone but all I feel is regret
And I can't find the nerve
To pick up the telephone I was thinking about how it drives me crazy
Just to feel your hand in mine
And how simple that is
And I've thought about saying no to hope But I have this funny habit
Of putting pictures up on the wall of you and me
I know that priorities never understand reality
And time never lends itself to those who are waiting on love But it is overdue that we should share this night and
Grace
Your smile is the only thing that keeps me breathing
The hours pass by like minutes when I'm with you
The hours pass like minutes in the rain
So let's stand here in the rain forever
