

Take Me Away

Scott Alan

Take me away
Take me far away from here
Let me reside in the silence,
Let the world just disappear
Let me leave it behind
Let me have one day alone
I want the thrill and sensation of living in the unknown

I just wanna stop and breathe
I don't care what's coming next
I just wanna frame this day
Life's too short to have regrets

If I sail away, will I meet the sea?
If I saw the sky, will I feel the breeze?

Let me live in the clouds
Let me sleep beneath a tree
Let me live in a place
Where there's nothing I can't be
Let me climb to the top of the highest mountain peak
Let me scream at the top of my lungs till I can no longer speak

Can't remember the last time that lived and let things be
It has just been way too long since I felt alive and free

If I sail away, will I meet the sea?
If I saw the sky, will I feel the breeze?

I'm ready to return to the place I last felt stillness
To return to the heart i had
When I was fine
Where the only things that mattered were picking colors
I could paint with
Too damn young to watch, my life just pass me by

So I'll sail away, so I can meet the sea
And I'll soar the sky, so I'll feel the breeze.
