

Priceless (Live At Red Rocks)

Incubus

The fact that you think you can Speak to me the way you do
Bleeds me to believe that you
Never stepped out of the Skin you live within, but when
And if this day occurs
Your tongue the taste will imitate
A battery the anti-equilibrium
Your stomach becomes the floor
The look on your face was priceless
A light goes on upstairs
The attic ablaze
This island isn't big enough
For both of us who will swim
In all infested oceans
Kiss the sand goodbye because
The tide is coming up and in
Ya water water water everywhere
And every chance to sink
It's an amalgamation of the things
You aren't the ways you wish you were
A split second perceiving of the way
You really look to everyone of them
I wish that you could get a glimpse
I wish that you could see because

Songwriters

KENNEY, BEN / BOYD, BRANDON / EINZIGER, MICHAEL / KILMORE, CHRISTOPHER / PASILLAS
II, JOSE
Published by

Lyrics © Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC
Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>