The 4th Dimension

Devo

I tried and tried, finally I realized
Why she left this 3D world behind
Go!She got tired of the same old story
She had a mind that would not quit
She'd insist a plot must exist
With an ending that she could not guessShe tried hard to convince me
Then she took off like a bright idea
She believed there just had to be
A movie that she'd never seenI watched as her fingers drew
A perfect line in space
I watched as she looked on through
Into another placeShe found out what she'd been missing
She decided she could change her luck
She was right, life's not black and white
It's something more than meets the eyeI watched as her fingers drew
A perfect line in space
I watched as she walked straight through
Into another placeShe parted with convention
Now she's living in the 4th dimension
Without meI watched as her fingers drew
A perfect line in space
I watched as she walked straight through
Into another placeI tried and tried and still I don't know why
She left me no address or a way to guess
I tried and tried, finally I realized
Why she left this 3D world behindNow she's somewhere in the 4th dimension
She's living in 4D
She found herself a new direction there
She's living without meShe's living in 4D
She's living without meSomewhere in the 4th dimension
She's living in 4D
She found herself a new direction there
She's living without meShe's living in 4D
She's living without me
