

Life's Not a Race

311

A day like today is for you
To let your mind unwind like you ought to Feel the earth turn 'round when your heart rate slows
Contemplating the thing only your heart knows that life's not a race
So hard to believe part of me will fade
In the mystery in a future world, long ago
Part feels for your love
And lives to tell you so
The world whirls around your mind in a golden spiral
The natural way that things organize
You can't stop entropy so why even try?
Observe the conscious flow and don't mystify, life's not a race
So hard to believe part of me will fade
In the mystery in a future world, long ago
Part feels for your love
And lives to tell you so
Slippin' into a trance, a chance encounter in the autumn
What do I see an opportunity and then, I got 'em
Sought a chill-out mix to carve some space
To make you wanna listen it's a bubblin' spring and Double in kings of this sound system
So hard to believe part of me will fade
In the mystery in a future world, long ago
Part feels for your love
And lives to tell you so
Do you see world without end, the rising sun my friend?
Imagine cloud like you will form again
In the spacey boredom, in the autumn of late afternoon
You are calm just like a sleepy room

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>