

I Told You I was Mean

Elle King

 Hmm, hmm
 Hmm, hmm
 I lied to you
 I never cried for you
 I swear that I tried to
 But I had better things to do
 Now you're on the road with your painful load
And the words I spoke left your big heart brokenYou know you still bother
 Because love is for the poor
So I left you knocking outside my front doorYou knew what this was
 I don't want you anymore
 I warned you before
 Warned you before
Well I, I coulda sworn I told you I was meanYou were a sweet old thing
 And I was lonely, so I let you hold me for
 A limited time only
You see, you're nothing to me'Cause I'll always be a bad, bad seed
 And you know you still bother
 Because love is for the poor
So I left you knocking outside my front doorYou knew what this was
 I don't want you anymore
 I warned you before, I warned you before
Well I coulda sworn I told you I was meanDum-de-dum dum-dum (hmm)
 I'm just a mean old thing (hm)
 Dum-de-dum dum-dum (hmm)I know you still bother
 Because love is for the poor
 So cut out your knocking
 'Cause I will never come
I will never come to the doorYou knew just what this was
 And I don't want you forever more
 I warned you before, baby
 I warned you before, oh honey
Well I coulda sworn I told you I was meanDum-de-dum dum-dum
 I'm just a mean old thing
 Dum-de-dum dum-dum
