

I'm a Cliche

Anouk

It's not what I needed or what I wanted but then again living a lie I couldn't go on another day I must have been way to busy adoring you it's over, oho

I hear hello, holding on my phone and I can't recall that I ever felt this sad in my whole life before my blood runs cold and honestly, I feel lonely baby so lonely babe These days are just way to bright I need a reason to believe yeah cause I keep telling myself that we are still in love even though you took off and broke my heart by letting me know that I ain't the one you're looking for Ooh, why do I keep telling myself that we are still in love
even though you took off and broke my heart and letting me know that I ain't the one you need no Talking all night to a filthy sky and some rain I'm trying to find just little bits of yesterday I guess you never knew how much I needed you oho, it's over

My hand on the mike covering my eyes so I can't see that some things ain't always what they seem to be things in my mind keep flashing by what's going on, what the hell is going on These days are just way to bright I need a reason to believe yeah
cause I keep telling myself that we are still in love
even though you took off and broke my heart letting me know that I ain't the one you're looking for Ooh, why do I keep telling myself that we are still in love
even though you took off and broke my heart and letting me know that I ain't the one you need no

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>