Gotta Love It

A.Tone Da Priest

I got a feeling, that it wont be long
The truth is so appealing itll come be strong
Am I apart, of what you emphasize
Am I a second in your day as if I have the right
Paint it black and white, a simple point of view
What I dont understand is how to make it true
Ill spend the time for you a minor investment
To look back so behind when we were blind to where the time went
Im fenced off, you leave me here and then you get lost
A warm place in my heart, a spot so soft
A list so long, so few get crossed
Accomplishments fall short never accustomed to the loss
No asking what it cost, or what its worth
Would you take the comfort if it comes with the hurt
A little courtesy demand, cross the street to hold my hand
What Im doings what I want and can
(Hook)
I just have, a taste of your love and Ill know that its true
Just a taste of your love and Ill know that its true (2x)
(Verse 2)
So apparently, blindly do the sharing
Give it all away, donations for repairing
The costume that you wearing is awfully costly
I thought we could be more prepared for what you brought me
Softly object, its hardly an answer
Its not what you meant, your disguise is laughter
And sacrifice, never assigned a price
You roll the dice, small things mighty man to a mice
Can you be more decisive? We might make it through Give a man a piece of the past and he will say that its new
I cant fly without the crew, stuck ashamed and drained of fuel
Out the sky you keep me away from the blue
Are you who you say you are, are the stars so very far?
Off guard you catch me, something you forgot to ask me
Take all that you can grab, cause all I need is actually just a
(Hook)
