Wild Geese

Daniel Antopolsky

Wild geese flew over my head today
Skirtinâ€™ the heavens on a far-flung highway
So I said a prayer right on the spot
Tied a ribbon and not a knot
Thanked the Lord and blessed the lot
Wild geese flew over my head today

Wild geese flew over my head today
I heard them banter, and I saw them play
Flyinâ€™ in a perfect "V"
The highest form of symetry
Headinâ€™ South, it will soon freeze
Wild geese flew over my head today

Wild geese flew over my head today
But first one must gaze up to see their parade
Oh, the sky for them is a welcomed friend
They know the secrets of the wind
We fly planes, but not like them
Wild geese flew over my head today

Wild geese flew over my head today
They spoke no gossip or words of dismay
And when they cut across the moon
And split the sky like a harpoon
It touched me so that I nearly swooned
Wild geese flew over my head today

And when they cut, across the moon
And split the sky like a harpoon
It touched me so, that I nearly swooned
Wild geese flew over my head today
