

Anything Genuine

Smalltown Poets

To test this gold for it's worth
Is the same as testing me
And the fire burns easily todayThe net is the good that's left
After the metal is refined
As I melt, look at what I've gotSeparate it all from what I needI'll take anything, anything genuine
Looking up from where I went
I can take whatever I get
I'll take anything, anything genuineMore interesting is my faith
Than the fear of what I'll miss
And those things are temporary anywayStill on this side, getting fit for a
Faith that's been tried
And I smile more believably whileGetting just enough to know I needI'll take anything, anything genuine
Looking up from where I went
I could take whatever I getFalling from Your hands
Or falling from Your lips
As long as it's from You, I know
I can take it, I can take it
And I'll rejoiceI'll take anything, anything genuine
And looking up from where I went
I can take whatever I getFalling from Your hands
Or falling from Your lips
As long as it's from You, I know
I can take whatever I get
