Crown of scars

Lifehouse

Forget about the fight to wear the crown of scars
'Cause you've already won, forget the pain
And leave the tears behind you bury underneath your feet
The remains of what's been left behind
'Cause you have got a long, long way to runBut now you dance the rest of the way and you don't look back
Can you hear that angel singing as you rise?Now you fly away and you don't look down now
And you laugh till you can't laugh any longer
As you watch your chains fall to the groundWill you fall against the wall that you have built with Your own hands? When you trip upon the thorns that you have Tied your legs together with, when you walk upon thin ice
That you know you should not be walking
Why do you wonder why that you fell through?Now you fly away and you don't look down now
And you laugh till you can't laugh any longer
As you watch your chains fall to the groundI know you laugh and show tears, smile down at your fears
From where you are, from way up here, you know
Nothing's ever looked so good, nothing ever looked so goodBut now you dance the rest of the way, you don't look back
Can you hear that angel singing as you rise?And you fly away and you don't look down now
And you laugh till can't laugh any longer
As you watch your chains fall to the groundAnd you fly away and you don't look down now
And you laugh till you can't laugh any longer
As you watch your chains fall to the ground

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/