

This Is the Beginning

Boy

Open the boxes, unpack what you own
Hang up some posters and make this a home
Walk down the stairs and open the door
Look at the things you've never seen before This is the beginning, of anything you want
This is the beginning
This is the beginning, of anything you want
This is the beginning Get on the buses, learn numbers and names
Your eyes are the camera, your heart is the frame
Hum a new song as you walk down the streets
Soon they'll be full with friends and memories This is the beginning, of anything you want
This is the beginning
This is the beginning, of anything you want
This is the beginning This is the beginning, of anything you want
This is the beginning
This is the beginning, of anything you want
This is the beginning This is the beginning, of anything you want
This is the beginning
This is the beginning, of anything you want
This is the beginning
