

Fairweather Friends

Vanessa Carlton

Say you see through the folly but you do it for the fame and I'm fighting the jetstream drinking cheap wine on aeroplanes

You're in LA not Chicago

key under mat, walk the dog order in home, alone.

Mmmmmm

Found your letter on a full moon Sunday night

Some other girl in your spell casting plans for her life

Pour the vodka and the dust sure flies

Breathe the words of diamonds on rings

And you didn't mean to do it

So I don't have to believe it

If you didn't really mean it

Then magical thinking gets us by

Ooooooh

Think for the aftershow those candy-coloured lips

Your age is showing and you've gotta work harder for it

It's always easier with freshmen

they're not as clever and she'll bring you alive

And you didn't mean to do it

So I don't have to believe it

If you didn't really mean it

Then magical thinking gets us by

My fairweather friend

Fairweather friend

Live for folly but you did it for the fame

Now you're fragile as pores drinking cheap wine on aeroplanes

Did I ever leave Chicago?

Got your message that you're doing well

And you didn't mean to do it

So I don't have to believe it

If we didn't really mean it

Then magical thinking gets us by

Gets us by, gets us by

You say you see through the folly but you did it for the fame

You say you see through the folly but you did it for the fame

You say you see through the folly but you did it for the fame

You say you see through the folly but you did it for the fame

My fairweather friend

Lyrics provided by <https://damnlyrics.com/>