

Goodbye Cruel World

Shakespear's Sister

She likes to wake up and just fake it
She knows if she touches it she'll break it
She can see all the houselights fading
And the ground beneath her feet is shaking
She's singing, "Bye bye, my old friend
You're never going to see my face again
You left me outside in the rain
So bye bye Mr. A." Look out, just when you think
She's looking thin
She's walking out with the biggest man
That you've ever seen
She's singing "Bye bye, my old friend
You're never gonna see my face again
It took some time but here I am
So bye bye Mr. A." Well now her grass is looking greener
And you hope that sometimes you might see her
What a diamond, boy, looks like you missed it
It must have left you feeling sick and twisted
Bye bye, my old friend
You're never gonna see my face again
You left me outside in the rain
So bye bye, I said bye bye
