Young and NaÃ¯ve

Heather Rigdon

I love how you hate the way I always say that youâ€™ll learn someday
I love how you keep trying to hold on to me when I turn away
Youâ€™re painting me pictures of Mrs and misters
And theyâ€™re pictures Iâ€™d love to believe
And thatâ€™s the beautiful thing about princes and queens
And youâ€™re being so young and naive

You say youâ€™re a man, and you swear that you can be the world to me
But Iâ€™ve seen the world, and I canâ€™t be the girl that I think you need
You beg me to listen to see what Iâ€™m missing
Youâ€™re talking all Adam and Eve
And Iâ€™m tempted to try, but the problem is
I am no longer so young and naÃ¯ve

You look like a face in the movies
Your kiss is straight out of a dream
You treat me like I was a princess
What in the world is the matter with me?

Itâ€™s not that Iâ€™m jaded, but love's complicated
Itâ€™s hard to see that at 19
I hear what youâ€™re saying, about having faith in
You promise me youâ€™ll never leave

And I wish I didnâ€™t know better
But Iâ€™m not so young and naÃ¯ve
