

The Less You Say

Emery

You ever catch yourself Just thinking of a way to get out Its like a reflex motion
The words flew in and leave a taste that you let linger for days inside your heart
We fell asleep just like before there under the trees I can't do this anymore make this all something that's behind us
For me, for you this is not the end but I'm scared Color your words in soft subtle sequence
But you force this on us like we shouldnt care
The feels that they will find us in a month and now
The end, The end is here
We fell asleep just like before under the trees
You said I can't do this anymore
You better run you best not say
They catch you here this all goes away
this all goes away.
Just give me a chance to change your mind Speak with the others you will see The place that you now hope to find your peace will cut pieces right out from me.
You could make this all go away You swept by us like seas and we slept by ourselves to see we hid hope in our sleeves and all the world knew we believed This life took me by the hand God knows where you'll find yourself
You better run you best not say
They catch you here this all goes away
this all goes away.
The less you say the more I cant shake the reason you believe its a reason you could stay Oh the less you say the more I can't shake the reason you need to leave the reason you could say, is the reason you could stay I know you've got your reasons but just listen to what I have to say

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>