Rollin' Stone

Duane Allman

I don't care how long she gone
Don't care how long she stays
I don't care how long she gone
Don't care how long she stays
She's a rolling stone she'll roll back home someday
She's a rolling stone she'll roll back home somedayWhen the train turned yonder I thought I heard it blow
When the train turned yonder I thought I heard it blow
I'm going to bring my suitcase please and let me go
I'm going to bring my suitcase please and let me goWhen the train rolled off she waved her hands at me
When the train rolled off she waved her hands at me
I looked out the window as far as I could see
I looked out the window as far as I could seeOh, the last time I see her standing on the station crying
Oh, the last time I see her standing on the station crying
She told her friend, "Yonder go that man of mine"
She told her friend, "Yonder go that man of mine"Love make a poor man wish he's dead and gone
Love make a poor man wish he's dead and gone
Cause the woman he loves had gone and left him alone
Cause the woman he loves had gone and left him aloneLooks like I ain't seen her in six long months today
Looks like I ain't seen her in six long months today
Love makes a poor man grieve but walk away
Love makes a poor man grieve but walk awayI don't care how long she gone
Don't care how long she stays
I don't care how long she gone
Don't care how long she stays
She's a rolling stone she'll roll back home someday
She's a rolling stone she'll roll back home someday

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/