

Security

Porches

man, i wish
there was a place
    that i knew
i could always stay
    'cause all i want
        and all i need
        is some security
            all i want
                security

the woman sang on the train
    "everything will be okay"
        and i wanna believe
            that all i need
                is some security
                        security
