The Stately Homes of England

The King's Singers

Lord Elderly, Lord Borrowmere Lord Sickert and Lord Camp With every virtue, every grace Ah, what avails the sceptred race

Here you see the four of us And there are so many more of us Eldest sons That must succeed We know how Caesar conquered Gaul And how to whack a cricket ball Apart from this, our education Lacks co-ordination Though we're young And tentative And rather rip-representative Scions of a noble breed We are the products of those homes Serene and stately That only lately Seem to have run to seed

The stately homes of England How beautiful they stand To prove the upper classes Have still the upper hand Though the fact that they have to be rebuilt And frequently mortgaged to the hilt Is inclined to take the gilt Off the gingerbread And certainly damps the fun Of the eldest son But still, we won't be beaten We'll scrimp and scrape and save The playing fields of Eton Have made us frightfully brave And though if the Van Dycks have to go And we pawn the Bechstein Grand We'll stand

By the stately homes of England

Here you see
The pick of us
You may be heartily sick of us
Still, with sense
We're all imbued

Our homes command extensive views
And with assistance from the Jews
We have been able to dispose of Rows and rows and rows of Gainsboroughs and Lawrences

Some sporting prints of Aunt Florence's Some of which were rather rude

Although we sometimes flaunt our family conventions

Our good intentions
Mustn't be misconstrued
The stately homes of England
We proudly represent
We only keep them up
For Americans to rent

Though the pipes that supply the bathroom burst And the lavatory makes you fear the worst

It was used by Charles I
(Quite informally)
And later by George IV
On a journey north
The state departments keep their Historical renown
It's wiser not to sleep there
In case they tumble down
But still, if they ever catch on fire

We'll fight
For the stately homes of England

Which, with any luck, they might

The stately homes of England
Though rather in the lurch
Provide a lot of chances
For psychical research
There's the ghost of a crazy younger son
Who murdered in 1351
An extremely rowdy nun
Who resented it

And people who come to call

Meet her in the hall
The baby in the guest wing
Who crouches by the grate
Was walled up in the west wing
In 1428
If anyone spots
The Queen of Scots
In a hand-embroidered shroud
We're proud
Of the stately homes of England
