Show Me an Angel

The Breakmen

I sit by the window, no family, no friends.
They've all passed and gone now like a thought in the wind.
A letter before me from so long ago,
signed "I love you," the name I don't know.

A shadow's a growing at the foot of my bed,
and I can't find your memory through the weeds in my head.
This old house so dark, quiet and cold,
is lost from the sunshine and I'm growing old.

I'll wait in the darkness for my time to come.
Sweet Heaven please send me a sign from above.
I'm down on my knees, head hanging low,
so show me an angel, I'm ready to go.

I heard a voice calling late in the night.
It came without warning, a vision in white.
Like a child in the meadow scared and alone,
I woke up this morning chilled to the bone.

I'll wait in the darkness for my time to come.
Sweet Heaven please send me a sign from above.
I'm down on my knees, head hanging low,
so show me an angel, I'm ready to go.
