

Once

Glen Hansard & Marketa Irglova

Part of me had died
Won't return
And part of me wants to hide
The part that's purr (pure?) Once, once
I knew how to talk to you
Once, once
But not any more Hear the sirens, call me home
Hear the sirens, call me home
Hear the sirens, call me home
Hear the sirens, call me home Part of me has died
To watch it burn
And the heart of me has tried
Look what it's become Once, once
I knew how to look for you
Once, once
But that was before
Once, once
I would have laid down and died for you
Once, once
But not any more Hear the sirens, call me home
Hear the sirens, call me home
Hear the sirens, call me home
Hear the sirens, call me home
Hear the sirens, call me home
Hear the sirens, call me home

Songwriters

HANSARD, GLEN Published by

Lyrics © Warner/Chappell Music, Inc. Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>