

There's a Thunder

The Family Crest

There's a thunder in my heart, rising up
There's a flicker and a spark, rising up
All we are, all we are are silent villains
That go on and on and on and on and on and on There is nothing in this world I can't give
There is something in this life left to live
Oh here and now, here and now will last forever
It goes on and on and on and on and on Don't sit back down to fall away
Riding on the backs of yesterday
You've got your heart, it's locked up safe
But rising up, the voices grow
Shaking through the streets and towns below
Slowly lifting up
When the world's not soft and silent anymore Onward and upward we move on now
On and on and on and on
