While You Are Gone

Sarah Vaughan

The clock stopped running, darling
When you went away
The sun stops shining
And the clouds turn to grayTo me I can't see nothing in the daze
While your are goneThe birds did bow their heads
'Cause they all seem to know
How much I love you, dear
And wanted you soNo, there isn't no place I'd want to go
While you are gone, goneI didn't realize how precious love could be
Now it is plain enough to see
To think that I could live
In this big cruel world by myself
Loving you so much, longing for your touchI know I'm just a fool who didn't play her part
To cause us, darling, to be so far apart
So how can I repair these broken hearts
While you are goneHow can I repair these broken hearts
While you are gone
