

I'll Say I'm Sorry Now

Shawn Colvin

I'm gonna let you down, I know that now
Make you cry, I know I will
And why should you believe, I would never leave
Or that I love you still For all that I am by and hard as we try
The bough breaks and the cradle falls
For everything I do that will tear at you
Let me say I'm sorry now So you can sing your song, you can get it wrong
You can kiss the rock of ages
And in your wildest dreams, you might see between
The fires and the sages You can walk awhile down the mystery mile
You can beat the drums of freedom
And in love and war through the rush and roar
You just call 'em like you see 'em

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>