

Fake A Smile

Radford

Time of your life
Can you make it count
Without a sound
There's no one
That makes you feel like you're someone
With your naked lies
And your frozen eyes'Cause it's too late to say you're sorry
It's too late to understand
All the times you made me worryWhen the night
Feels like it's loaded
With a wasted day
And a trace of decay
And you're somewhere
That sometimes feels like your nowhere
Deaf on a cold freeway
Is that your only way'Cause it's too late to say you're sorry
It's too late to understand
All the times you made me worry
All of the times that I tried to fake a smileHave you ever needed someone else?
And the feeling never fades
Have you ever had it pulled away from you?
'Til there's nothing left to takeIt's too late to say you're sorry
It's too late to understand
All the times you made me worry
All of the times that I tried to fake a smile
That I tried to fake a smile
Just to get by

Songwriters

MEAD, JONATHANPublished by

Lyrics © Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>