

Even The Strong Won't Survive

Self Against City

Something's wrong
Something I, I, I can't put my finger on
Breathe in, breathe out
Until the feeling's gone
But the nights keep getting colder
And the days all feel the same Too much, too much, too much is never enough
I can't, I can't, can't seem to get what I want
I know it's my fault
But if we only live once, who's to tell me I'm wrong
To want the best for myself
To want something else
And all I want I see in Whoa, whoa, whoa, whoa Something's wrong
Something I, I, I can't put my finger on
Spiraling down
Control is fading out
But I seem to love affliction
Throw myself right overboard Too much, too much, too much is never enough
I can't, I can't, can't seem to get what I want
I know it's my fault
But if we only live once, who's to tell me Too much, too much, too much is never enough
I can't, I can't, can't seem to get what I want
I know it's my fault
But if we only live once, who's to tell me I'm wrong
To want the best for myself
To want something else
And all I want I see in Whoa, whoa, whoa, whoa

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>