Nola

Moses Guest

It's been a long sleepless dream, do you know what I mean?
Then no one knows better than you.
However I try, not even I can put it all together right.

To wake up and discover the longing for my mother is through.
The immutable connection, this manna of affection, is true.

If only I could have known, before I was grown, I would have been there by her side. To help things along, to give them a song, to sing three sweet babies goodnight.

To wake up and discover, not only has my mother come true; to three sisters, I'm a brother, now just how does that sound to you?
Well it suits me just fine, and now it's about time. I am beside myself with this love.
I cried for a sign, and I cried through the night until,
finally it did shine.

So who is this guy with a bird in his eye, who cannot be bothered with love?
Now he's built us a home, but he's always alone, cause he just can't get nothing right.

To wake up and discover, not only has my mother come true. To three sisters, I'm a brother, now just how does that sound to you?
Well it suits me just fine, and now it's about time. I am beside myself with this love.
I cried for a sign, and I cried through the night until.

Finally it did shine.
