Calling For You

Iris DeMent

I woke up this morning without you Don't ask me how but I got through
The floor of this room I've been pacing trying to drown out the sound my heart's making It's calling for youWe said, "It looks like we won't make it.
You hurt me, I hurt you, and we can't take it". so we fixed it, we thought, just by leaving but the heart, it's too wise for deceiving and it's calling for you[Chorus:]
You've had enough, I know I've had enough and we don't know what else now to do
We could both walk away but there's too much at stake you love me and I know I love youI walked over and I opened the curtain It's pouring down rain and, man, it's hurting
The phone on the table is ringing and I knew before I heard you speaking you were calling for me[Chorus]
You've had enough, I know I've had enough
and we don't know what else now to do
We could both walk away but there's too much at stake you love me and I know I love youI woke up this morning without you Don't ask me how but I got through
The floor of this room I've been pacing
trying to drown out the sound my heart's making It's calling for you
