

Every Now and Then

Alan Jackson

The love you thought was dead and gone
Somehow keeps on hanging on
Even when your heart has left it far behind Just when you have turned the page
It seems to find a way
And there it is again every now and then Every now and then
That ol' feeling comes around
Every now and then
I see your face in another cloud And every now and then
Some old something
Takes me right back again
Every now and then You can finally breathe life in Without wondering where she's been
Go to sleep at night without her on your mind In a second it appears
Followed by familiar tears
Like a long-lost friend every now and then And every now and then
That ol' feeling comes around
Every now and then
I see your face in another cloud And every now and then
Some old something
Takes me right back again
Every now and then And I know it's all for nothin'
There's no goin' back to way back when But every now and then
That ol' feeling comes around
Every now and then
I see your face in another cloud And every now and then
Some old something
Takes me right back again
Every now and then I still love you
Every now and then
