Lonely Night

Marley's Ghost

Lonely night, are you going to last forever?
Or does it just feel that way to me?
Toss and turn, I know there'll be no sleep tonight,
This room's too crowded with your memory.
The sound of two hearts breaking was the shot heard round my world,
As your picture goes on smiling in its frame.
This night stretches out unending like I thought our love would be.
I was wrong, it's a shame.
Another day, that sad face in the mirror
better hurry up he's got a lot to do.
Day rolls by, off to work and "Hi, how are you?"
and back home, another long night without you.
Your picture's still there smiling as if nothing could go wrong.
For a minute I feel love fill up the room.
But its just a paper image of a girl who used to love me,
It's no use, that's the truth.
Lonely night, are you going to last forever?
Or does it just feel that way to me?
Toss and turn, I know there'll be no sleep tonight,
This room's too crowded with your memory.
Memories of our love and how it used to be.
Memories of you when you were loving me.
