

You Test My Heart

Torul

You test my heart by Torul We were alone in the room The last ending of space and time Black beginnings of hate and all the sorrow There is no tomorrow Everithing you see is just a phase It's a distant memory Of forgotten space A distant place It's the place that let's me favor my own pace You dissappear completely I know you would be standing in my face crumbling, left unturned to the destruction of hate I shut my eyes blind Creeping to the soul I knew you were born before the complications started in the war You're faithful to the God Who I left behind And the reasons I am blind The reasons they are creeping in my eyes hurts me inside Now is the time You should realize Commanding all the stories you're not told You know that everything's on hold The voices in my head are too loud screaming your name all the time I shut my eyes blind Creeping to the sword hard to breath hard to fold the pawning of the past the creeping lies the lies beneath demise Open up your stupid eyes Is it so hard to realize? Its your demise girl You should know that it was just a lie.

Lyrics Submitted by Itzel Pichardo

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>