Lighthouse

Hit the Lights

I gather stones when the weight of the world is too much
Rather suffer than not have enough
Building castles that sink into sand
In search of land lost in a fog
Made my peace with it, floated on
And then you came along
And helped me light my wayAnd all the times I wasted on someone that wasn't you
Like all along I should've known but now I found the truth
If I could just wake up to you, make love to you
That's all I want to do
So guide me like a lighthouse back to youI know it's hard
I miss the weight of your head on my chest
I miss keeping you warm in your bed
Making moments I'll never forget
Like the ocean breeze you came along
To lift my sails, to take me home
And when you're gone I can barely stay afloatAnd all the times I wasted on someone that wasn't you
Like all along I should've known but now I found the truth
If I could just wake up to you, make love to you
That's all I want to do
So guide me like a lighthouse back to youAnd I'll be home, home
Guide me like a lighthouse back to you
And I'll be home, home
I lost my faith, but I found my hope in you
I gather stones when weight of the world is too muchAll the time I wasted on someone that wasn't you
Like all along I should've known but now I found the truth
If I could just wake up to you, make love to you
That's all I want to do
I lost my faith, but I found my hope in you
So guide me like a lighthouse back to you
